Dee & Rens

We are very proud to announce that the our June 2010 issue of the NODA News won the USDF award for Best Overall Layout and Design for a GMO with 175 - 499 members. And that's not all -- NODA's Web Site won Honorable Mention (2nd place). Congratulations to Niki Sackman, our Newsletter Editor and Linda Cooley, our Webmaster, for their hard work on these essential forms of communication. I am very proud of them both. Dale Lappert will receive the awards for Niki and Linda when she attends the annual convention in December.

I guess that the cold weather is finally here. Although usually far too short, fall is my favorite time of the year. I love trail riding with the crunch of dried leaves under my horse's hooves. The smell of the air and the crispness against my face, especially when the sun is bright, can't be beat. The Hunter Paces are in full swing all around Northeast Ohio, while the show season is winding down and folks are planning their winter training. Whether heading to Florida or staying here, I think most of us will be a little less intense for the next months.

The Banquet and Awards Committees have been working hard the last couple of months planning a banquet that we are sure you will enjoy. You should have received your invitation by now; if not, it should arrive very soon. (If you don't receive one, please contact Membership Chair Alice Brightup at, membership@nodarider.org to be sure we have your correct mailing address!) You can also print it from the web site. We have some surprises planned so I hope you will come as much for the fun

Greetings from the President

Dear NODA Members,

as for the awards. Last year we had some really nice raffle items and we plan to do the same again this year, only more! We have had some wonderful things donated again by our local tack shops and members. Whether you are up for awards or not, don't miss the fun November 20th at the Crown Plaza in Independence.

As I write this I am thinking about the weekend of October 16th and 17th. Saturday was NODA's last open show of the year and Sunday was the Championship Show. The weather could not have been any better and the volunteers were the best there are. Schooling show Manager Chris Goodall, Show Secretary Fran Cverna, and Volunteer Coordinator Gail Patton saw the season out in style. Thanks again to everyone for another fabulous Schooling Show season.

In the next couple of months the Schooling Show Committee will meet to discuss this past year, but more importantly to start planning for next year. If you have any comments on this past season please send them on to Chris Goodall at, schoolingshow@nodarider.org. We would like to answer your questions, know and understand your suggestions, and address your concerns. And we would also love to hear what you liked. NODA belongs to you, your opinion is important, so let us hear from you. Also let us know if you are interested in getting more involved by serving on the Schooling Show or any other of NODA's many committees. If you would like to see change, make a difference. Come join us.

See you at the Banquet. It is going to be a good one!

Dee Liebenthal
President

Show Summary and Thank You! Northern Ohio fall weather brought lots of rain late in the week, but it cleared for perfect weather over the weekend of the last Open Schooling Show and the Schooling Show Championships at Chagrin Valley Farms. We extend special thank you to all who assisted with every aspect of putting the show on throughout the weekend, from ring set-up through tear down and everything in between. One highlight on Saturday was the Pas De Deux - what a fun ride!

Our youngest competitors also got to show off at lunch for the lead-line demonstration. A special thank you to Susan Schnittke and Coventree Farms for donating the lovely ribbons handed out at the show. All the lead-line competitors were thrilled with their wonderful ribbons!

Special thanks to our Volunteers:

Friday Dressage Rings Set-up:

Jennifer Ball, Linda Cooley, Fran Cverna, Mary Lou Gallagher, Jennifer Kick, Molly Piuanno, Dee Liebenenthal, Brenda Trautman.

Saturday Show Volunteers: Lauren Ball-Tisdale, Liz Biddick, Mary Ann Carabodad, Sarah Frank, Laura Gentile, Carolyn Hanlon, Linda Herbert, Kathy Davis-Kime, Dee Liebenenthal, Jackie Lipton, Kim Moody, and Elizabeth Scalabrino, Charlene Tillman, Krista Warnick, Leah Wojtkiewicz, Taya Workum-Byers, and Cathy Ziegler.

Sunday Show Volunteers: The Unknown Horse Husband who helped me set up the small ring in the AM! Kim Apicella, Sarah Arpke, Cindy Bank, Caroline Hahn, Jill Hazen, Peggi Ignagni, Mary Jo Keptner, Dee Liebenenthal, Margaret McElhany, Jennifer Milliner, Kim Moody, Patricia Moore, Amy Pajcic, Kirsten Rall, Ursula Stanton-Hicks, Winnie Spisak, Evelyn Tyner, Lauren Wade, Shari Weeden and Bob Weston.

Thank you to Chagrin Valley Farms for hosting the shows. Thanks to our Judges, Dagmar Zimmerman and Debbie Boeh.

Finally I wish to extend a Super Special, Giant-Sized THANK YOU to Fran Cverna, Schooling Show Secretary Extrordinaire for your countless hours and endless support. Five great years as NODA's Schooling Show Secretary. You will be missed!

Sincerely, Chris Goodall - Schooling Show Manager

Spanish Riding School

By: Lora Szloh

The oldest classical dressage riding school is still in operation today. It's located in beautiful Vienna, Austria. Last year my husband and I visited Prague and Vienna on vacation. Of course I had to see the Spanish riding school for myself. Outside the school they have stunning architecture, complete with massive horse statues. Just inside, one walks through their Lipizzaner museum and can purchase tickets to watch the Morgenarbeit (morning exercise). This is very different from a Thoroughbred morning ride; this is in full quadrille style complete with formal dress and music.

There are seats all around the top level above the arena where spectators can see the arena in total style. There is a crystal chandelier and a huge painting of Charles VI, along with stone pillars. Spectators like me walk in and become visibly awestruck by the grandeur. Watch this brief commercial to see what I mean. <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=pLD3-lOh2xc>

There was an existing riding school on that same site at least two hundred years earlier. Emperor Charles the VI commissioned an architect in 1729 to build the stunning school we know and love today. Originally a government owned school patronized by royalty, it recently became a privately managed school.

Today students are selected around 16 years old based on talent and an already impressive ability. They will spend the first two to three years on a lunge line without stirrups. How frustrating this must be for them. For the next eight years they are assigned one horse to train in addition to continuing their own training. It isn't easy and anything gained is through hard work and patience. Training ends when the rider is 60. The riders are called Oberbereiter and even today are mostly male, although in 2008, for the first time in the 430 year history of the school, two women were admitted.

For hundreds of years, the world looked to the Spanish riding school as a measure for riding and dedication to the sport of dressage. It has hardly changed for all this time. I hope the unswerving resistance to change continues. Otherwise, how and where will we measure methods used for training and teach us about our relationship with the horse? Normally I embrace change, but this school has evolved and preserved these classical methods for us. It's easy to see ads for gadgets and oddball training advice and be tempted to see if they will work. The Spanish Riding School serves to remind us that it is tried and true classical training that will bring horses through the levels correctly, even to the highest level of training – the haute école.

Equine Dentistry Basics

By: Gian P. Gargiulo, DVM

Equine dentistry is an integral part of your horse's physical well being. The reason equine dentistry is so often overlooked is because the vast majority of dental disorders are not obvious when looking at the horse. If a horse does not have routine dental assessments, these dental problems will not become apparent until the horse is having difficulty eating or is showing signs of discomfort with the bit. When dental issues are allowed to progress to this point, they are usually accompanied by oral trauma, malocclusions, periodontal disease, or tooth loss.

The reasons to focus on the dental health of your horse are numerous. Routine dental care will eliminate sharp enamel points in the horse's mouth. Enamel points are a source of discomfort for the horse that they cannot escape. These points many times will lead to trauma of the tongue or cheeks. This pain will have a profound effect on the way your horse eats, their acceptance of the bit, and their overall attitude. Proper dental care will also ensure that your horse is utilizing all of the nutrients available in their feed. Many horses with dental pain cannot properly grind grains and rough forages. If these feeds cannot be ground up they cannot be digested properly and used by the horse. This waste represents a significant cost to the horse owner. If feeds and forages are not ground down to very small sizes before entering the gastro intestinal tract, they can lead to colic or choke. Larger than normal pieces of feed many times will start to build up areas of the gastrointestinal tract that have a smaller diameter. These blockages are life threatening for the horse and many times require veterinary intervention to resolve.

To understand the need for equine dentistry, we must first realize that the equine tooth is a living tissue. It is easy to think of the equine tooth as an inanimate object, but in reality it is a complex structure that is constantly in a state of change. The equine tooth is constantly erupting (growing) at an approximate rate of 2-3 mm per year. It is this growth that results in the need for routine dental exams and floats.

As the equine tooth erupts it is constantly being worn down by the opposing tooth of the opposite arcade. In other words, the upper teeth wear the lower teeth and vice versa. Wherever a tooth or a portion of a tooth does not have an opposing structure to wear against that tooth will continue to grow and create a sharp enamel point or overgrowth. The most common places for enamel points to grow are on the buccal or cheek side of the upper teeth and on the lingual or tongue side of the lower teeth. The goal of the routine dental float is to eliminate these sharp enamel points, and overgrowths in order to prevent ulcerations of the oral tissues. In effect, we are doing a job the horse's mouth could not do on its own.

I am often asked, "What do horses in the wild do about these sharp enamel points?" The development of enamel points in large part is a result of domestication of the horse. By feeding coarse roughage and hard grains, the horse must change its pattern of mastication (Chewing). Instead of the broad sweeping side to side motion of the jaw that you see with a horse chewing grass, the horse must now bite down in a short chopping motion in order to break down hay and grain. Horses in the wild also are grazing almost continuously, whereas domesticated horses usually will be fed 2-3 times daily and eat for approximately an hour at a time. This increased grazing time of horses in the wild leads to more wear of these points.

Routine and thorough dental exams and floats by a qualified equine dentist are an integral part of your horses overall health at all stages of their lives.

Monsters at M and Angels at A

By: Fran Cverna

(with credits to the office crew at the 2010 Championship Schooling Show)

Thank you all, NODA members, for five years of excellent competition and comradery at the schooling shows. I have very much enjoyed being your schooling show secretary and want to share these thoughts for the future.

At some shows your horse might behave as though there are Monsters at M. Not only M, but every letter could get worse! There may be:

Alligators at A
eXpletives at X
Imps at I
Goblins at G

Creatures at C
Monsters at M
Ruffians at R
Banshees at B
Phantoms at P
Fiends at F

Kangaroos at K
Villains at V
Elephants at E Spooks at S, and Horrors at H!

But then, there are the days when you have the ride of your life, and there is/are:

Angels at A
Dancing at D
eXtension at X
Impulsion at I
Giving at G

Collection at C
Marching at M
Regularity at R
Bend at B
Purity at P
Forwardness at F

Kindness at K
Versatility at V
Elevation at E Suppleness at S, and Harmony at H.

Although it may be much more fun to think of silly monster words for every letter so you can smile all the way around the arena, I wish you all many rides with angels at A.
